‘Increasing understanding of the many factors that influence behaviour’

Children or young people’s behaviour can often baffle us, leaving us struggling to grasp the reasons behind concerning behaviour. Without the understanding we will also fail to effectively support the child and the behaviours will remain or escalate.

In this workshop Bridget will use eQe’s Time Zone model to help the participants increase their understanding of children and young people’s behaviour. Participants will increase their understanding of the many factors that influence behaviour and will develop the skills to detect what the behaviour of a child or young person is communicating, and how to begin to meet these needs within a school context.

Bridget Sheehan is the Director of eQe and the creator of the Th.Inc.Room approach. She is an experienced teacher, therapist, behaviour consultant and trainer and has worked in schools for over 25 years.

“An excellent course lots of information received and to absorb but very informative. I found it very useful and it will help spot any triggers regarding behaviour within the classroom. Thank you”
